Junior Softball League Play Starts Thursday Night at WT

Games in the junior softball league will begin at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the softball field at West Texas State College.

First game scheduled is between the teams sponsored by Sternenberg Lumber and Taylor-Evans Farm Stores. The second game of the evening will be between the teams sponsored by Taylor and Sons Country Store and Foster Insurance.

Games in the league are scheduled each Monday and Thursday evening. Lynn Hulsey, assistant coach at Canyon High School, is director of the league.

At an organizational meeting of the league last Thursday, 90 boys showed up to join teams, Hulsey said. They have been put on teams with 15 players each.

If enough additional youths ask to play, the league will be split along age lines into two divisions, Hulsey said. Those eligible to play are in the nine to 14 age bracket.

Hulsey said two or three more adult team managers are needed. Managers for all six of the teams in the league have been secured, but some have asked to be replaced if possible.

Borden Price, assistant coach at West Texas State College, will be umpire for the junior softball games.

The schedule calls for games between teams sponsored by Bellah's Supermarket and Cooper's Market and Sternenberg and Taylor and Sons to be played next Monday night.

On Thursday, June 21, the games will be between Foster's and Cooper's, and Taylor-Evans' and Bellah's.

There is no charge for those who wish to see the games. The teams are sponsored by the six local merchants.

Slap That Mosquito Hard! City's Truck Started Making the Rounds Last Night

Although the "slap-slap" of Canyon citizens each night makes it seem impossible, the city has begun work on controlling insects.

The fogging truck, used for controlling mosquitos, has been out of action because of missing repair parts. The parts were obtained yesterday, and the truck was scheduled to go into operation last night.

Fly control with hand sprayers has been going on for quite some time. The city's alleys have been sprayed twice, and workmen are making a third trip now. The recent rains slowed up the fly death rate, though.

The city uses a sugar and water base poison and the rains washed the poison away.

Farm Bureau Plans Queen Contest

The Randall County Farm Bureau has decided to enter the Farm Bureau Queen contest again this year.

County winners will enter the district contest, the district winners will be in the state contest and state winners will be given an all-expense trip to the national convention in Miami, Fla., in December.

The contest in Randall County will be conducted in August. Eligible to enter are girls who will be between the ages of 16 and 21 by Sept. 1 whose fathers or brothers are actively engaged in agricultural production and are members of the Randall County Farm Bureau.

This year, daughters of board members are also eligible to enter. Those not eligible are daughters of the county chairmen or of the members of the state board of directors.

"Last year, without the assistance of the home demonstration clubs in Randall County, we could not have promoted a Queen Contest. We ask their assistance and support again this year and request they submit the names of eligible candidates to the Farm Bureau office in Canyon," the Farm Bureau said.

The bureau is also planning to sponsor the 4-H Club girls dress revue in the county and to recognize achievements of 4-H boys at the same time.

The exact date of the Queen contest will be announced. Other information will be mailed to bureau members.

City Asks Aid Of County Heads

Aid in purchasing right of way to widen Fourth Avenue east from 23rd Street to the city limits was asked of the Randall County Commissioners Court in a meeting Monday.

Officials of the City of Canyon and West Texas State College asked the county to purchase 10 feet of right of way on the north side of Fourth from 23rd to 24th Streets in order to widen the avenue and make it a four-lane highway.

Attending the meeting with the commissioners were Dr. James P. Cornette, president of West Texas State, Virgil Henson, college business manager, City Manager Dudley Bayne, Mayor Hosea Foster, Commissioner Paul Lindsey, District Highway Engineer Guy Lott, Highway Engineers W. V. York and Chili Smith and Bill McMorries, consulting engineer for the city.

Dr. Cornette said that 200 girls are now living in Randall Hall, across Fourth Avenue from the college campus proper. By the fall semester of 1957, additional dormitories on that block will give a total of 400 girls who must cross the street to get to classes.

He said the Baptist Student Center on the corner of 25th and Fourth Avenue generates additional traffic, and the entire combination will make a "tremendous amount of student traffic across Fourth."

In addition to the student traffic, Dr. Cornette pointed out the heavy traffic at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and the planned use of Fourth Avenue and the six-mile crossing road as a detour during construction of the expressway.

Dr. Cornette said the college would furnish right of way to widen the avenue from 24th to 26th on the north side of the avenue and from 24th to 25th on the south side. The right of way will be furnished without charge, he said.

The college will also take the responsibility of obtaining right of way from the Baptist General Convention of Texas on the south side of Fourth in the west half of the block between 25th and 26th.

Dr. Cornette said the college could not speak for the Baptists, but "we think we can get it (the right of way) without charge from them." That half-block is used by the Baptist General Convention for the Baptist Student Center and a home for the director of the center.

Bayne told the commission that nine houses would be involved in obtaining right of way east of the college and Baptist property. He said the needed right of way would not take in any houses, but would only take frontage off the lots.

The county was asked to purchase right of way in the first block of the project. Involved would be a portion of the driveway of the Humble station, and 10 feet inside the property line to the end of the block. Buildings on the property needed include those used by the Palo Duro Dress Shop, Buffalo Tailors, Buffalo Barber Shop and a frame building used by Tony Michell as a residence.

The city now owns 80 feet of right of way on Fourth Avenue. An additional 10 feet is needed to widen the street to four lanes.

Plans call for taking 10 feet on the north side of the block from 23rd to 26th, angling from nothing at 25th to 10 feet at 26th on the south side of the avenue, and taking 10 feet off the south side to the old city limits at 28th.

The street is on 100 foot right of way from 28th to the new city limits at the east end of Pioneer Estates.

Lott said the highway would be constructed with a sidewalk of six to eight feet on each side, which would be laid at the curb line. Bayne said taking the right of way would leave each of the property owners east of 25th with 18 to 24 feet of front yard, including the sidewalk.

Lott said he would recommend the project if 90 feet of right of way is provided. He said he did not know whether the street would be divided with a median strip or not, but said he thought a median strip would be to an advantage in traffic safety.

He said the college is entitled to a facility that would take care

The 1955-1956 program budget for the American Cancer Society, Inc., calls for expenditures of $7.5 million for research, $7.3 million for education and $2.4 million for fund-raising (according to the budget, the item is about nine per cent) and $1.9 million for administration (that's seven per cent).

So, if you gave $10 to the Cancer Crusade last spring, you gave 70 cents for salaries, office supplies and the like.

Lots of folks have been wondering where "they" are going to get the extra $100,000 needed to buy expressway right of way. It doesn't take much study to figure out an answer to that question.

"They" are going to get it from the taxpayers of Randall County. That's the way it is, and that's the way it's going to be. Either it will come from the taxpayers, or there won't be any extra $100,000.

That's always a good point to remember. The government, whether it be city, school, county, state or nation, isn't "they" when it comes to putting up money. "They" is "us."

An experiment that should be extremely interesting is going on in St. Paul, Minn. Up there, the school board was having a hard time raising money to keep operating the school system as it had been. They appealed twice to the voters for more money, and were turned down both times.

The biggest reason "they" needed more money was because it was extremely hard to hire and keep teachers—other school systems were paying more money.

So, "they" decided to cut out all extra-curricular activities and put all that money in on teachers' salaries. "They" cut out football, basketball, tiddle-de-winks, band, choir, everything that could not be considered as necessary classroom work, the kind of work needed for academic learning.

The experiment is bound to show up in a lot of out-of-the-way areas. It should bear a direct relationship on juvenile crime, either lessening it or making it greater; it should show up in the sort of grades that graduates of the system make in college; there should be more or less homelife, more or less church activity—you name it, the experiment in the schools should have an effect.

Anyway, up there, "us" told "they" that no more money was coming, so "they" cut down on what was being spent.

The same sort of business will work anywhere. If "us" tells "they" that no more money is coming, "they" won't spend so much.

But, "us" can have no gripe about the service "they" are giving. We will only get what we pay for—no more.

If you don't like it because the city commission raised the tax rate last week, tell them so. Beforehand, it might be a good idea to decide what city service you can get along without, and volunteer to give it up. Don't expect to get the same service for less money.

The same idea will work all the way up, although it would be harder to put across. But we must remember that we should be prepared to get along with less service if we put up less money.

I, for one, could get along with less service from the federal government. I believe I could get along without the service provided by the "feds" that control whether or not I could sell my natural gas to someone at a price we both agreed upon, the service that controls whether or not I must belong to a union, the service that takes away my right to associate or not associate with other individuals.

★ ★ ★

Supreme Court Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter, going along with decision that upheld "union shop" contracts on Nebraska railroads, noted, "We have come full circle from the point of view in the Adair case." The Adair case decision, made in 1908, said that a railroad could fire an employe simply because he was a member of a union. The most recent decision holds that a railroad may not keep an employe unless he becomes a member of a union.

I suppose by "we," the justice means the Supreme Court. I'm quite sure he can't speak for the people of the United States.

I envy President Eisenhower. I don't want his job, nosiree, not on a bet. I'm not crazy to be his age, have the time to play that much golf, or be able to fly around to different places.

What I envy him for is the swimming pool in the White House. In a recent issue of U. S. News and World Report was the President's schedule for an entire week. According to it, he's a busy man, but everyday about noon he takes off from the office for a swim in the White House pool.

He was back to work following lunch and a nap about an hour and a half after he left for the pool each day, but he was able to slip into the water for a cooling, relaxing "swim in the White House pool."

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the grass, greened by the recent rain, is nearing the brown-tip point, when it can either die from lack of moisture or grow knee deep from more rain.

The flowers planted late in the spring are up to a fine stand, and petunias set out as plants are blooming up a storm. Most of the roses have stopped for a breather, lawn mowers are running full blast and it's backache time for the home gardener.

The fish are ravenous at Buffalo Lake, the kids can't wait until time to go swimming every afternoon, the early evening cool spreads and draws families out of their stuffy houses.

The sun burns, heating up the day, but it's still handy to have plenty of cover by the bed at night.

Food tastes good. Smiling happiness lights the faces of the people. There's a purposeful gleam in men's eyes.

Travel folders and questions about vacation time pop up in ordinary conversation.

The doors of the Joseph A. Hill Chapel don't have time to close behind one newly-married full-of-hope couple before another is heading for the altar.

It's early summer in the Panhandle—when the weather's better, the scenery prettier, the people nicer than at any other time of the year in any other place in the world. It's good to be here now, and I'm glad you're here, too.

Herbert Hoover, when president, was said to have had 36 suits—all of them blue serge, double-breasted. What good is it to have so many suits if they all look the same?

All of us are dependent on others. The more people a man is dependent on, the more service he is rendering. Woolworth, Kress and Ford made huge fortunes by providing products for the masses.

The Alamo City has a man with perhaps the shortest name in Texas: Max Itz.

Most hotels have gone all-out for air-conditioning and the rooms are sealed up, quite without any regard for the fact that there are some people who get sore throat from the breeze of chill air piped in and others who, for various reasons associated with the little matter of breathing, prefer to raise a window and inhale the air the way Nature manufactures it. One San Antonio hotel, however, has half the rooms air-conditioned, and half not.

A man entered a newspaper office and handed a piece of paper across the counter: "For sale, my 160-acre farm, cheap, John Smith." The advertising man said, "Why not let me write an ad that will sell your place?" and, after gaining information, the expert wrote: "For sale, My 160-acre farm, with a log cabin on top of a hill, a brook flowing at the foot, honeysuckle growing around the door, roses blooming at the gate, an orchard of peach and apple trees where bees buzz and birds sing. John Smith."

The man read it over and turned toward the door. "Wait," the advertising man said, "you haven't left the ad."

"No," the other replied, "and I'm not going to; I've been looking for a place like that all my life myself."

State Capitol NEWS

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Nearly 100,000 young Texans took off their mortar boards and rolled up their sleeves this last week.

Analysts predict that figures, when complete, will show a record number of diplomas and degrees awarded this year.

Texas Education Agency pegs public high school graduates at between 64,000 and 65,000. Degrees being conferred by state-supported colleges and universities are estimated by the Texas Legislative Council at 20,000. Private and church - supported schools swell the graduate rolls several thousand more.

Awaiting these young people, said commencement speakers, is unprecedented opportunity. Examples of the '56 high school graduate's future, as outlined by an Austin speaker: (1) a longer life span — 44 years ahead for boys, 49 for girls; (2) higher earnings averaging a quarter million dollars apiece; (3) less work, dwindling to a 30-hour week and (4) ever-increasing ease and leisure as technology advances.

Concrete evidence of the speakers' promises is the job placement story. University of Texas Student Employment Bureau reports five to ten job offers per graduate at better than ever salaries. Personnel in some deans' offices speak wearily of the impossibility of coping with the year-end flood of would-be employers.

High school officials say many graduates begin work between their last exam and commencement night.

Mixed Reaction To Highway Bill

A bonanza or a blunder — Texans are in disagreement as to which term applies to the new federal highway bill.

Senate passage of the bill left only a few details to be ironed out in House-Senate conference before sending the measure to the President. Final enactment will set into motion a 13-year, $51,000,000,000 interstate highway construction program.

Texas Highway Department officials are frankly jubilant. They are poised to begin letting contracts Aug. 1, using the new supply of federal funds. "We'll be scraping the bottom of the barrel in the July letting," said State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer.

Greer said the new law would mean a minimum increase of $57,000,000 a year in federal road building aid to Texas — or double the present amount.

He called it "the most far-reaching piece of highway legislation yet enacted." He predicted an era of unparalleled development.

Gov. Allan Shivers was less enthusiastic. He charged turning a state function over to "bungling bureaucracy" made it unduly costly.

His objection was to the provision giving the Secretary of Labor, rather than the states, power to set wages on all contracts. "This means a third less highway mileage than the people would otherwise get," said Shivers.

"Tax money always dwindles in value," said the governor, 'when it is sent to Washington for processing and returned to the states."

Liquor Revenue Reported

Liquor, legal and illegal, brought the state $2,401,414 in revenue during April. Largest part — $1,513,932 — came from the beer excise tax.

A total of 505 criminal complaints resulted in 308 convictions, 50 jail sentences and $45,929 in fines.

Beneficiaries were the available school fund, old age assistance fund, clearance fund and others which received $2,203,518.

Hope Held For Labor Law

Champions of Texas' "right-to-work" law haven't given up the fight.

Railway attorneys and Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd contend that the U. S. Supreme Court decision on a Nebraska law did not touch on the constitutional issues involved in Texas. This was pointed out in a supplemental brief filed last week with the Texas Supreme Court.

A ruling is expected soon from the state's high court on the hard-fought "Amarillo case" involving railroad unions' right to demand closed shop contracts.

Union leaders interpret the U. S. Court ruling as knocking out state anti-closed shop laws in the railroad industry. Shepperd and railroad lawyers say the decision, if anything, strengthens the case for the Texas law.

Higher and Higher Learning

A rising skyline has been proposed to meet the University of Texas' critical classroom needs.

President Logan Wilson suggests that the only two remaining sites on the original 40-acre campus be used for eight-story buildings. Most present buildings have four floors. For development five to ten years hence, Dr. Wilson recommends expanding to the east of the present campus in the area adjacent to Memorial Stadium.

"TV Trial" Appealed

Fairness of the first televised murder trial in Texas history is being challenged in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Defense attorneys charge that Dist. Atty. Tom Moore of Waco was more interested in "putting on a show" in the Waco trial of Harry L. Washburn, than in giving the man a fair trial.

Law Violation Admitted

Violation of Texas Election laws was admitted by C. T. Johnson in a deposition just taken in Austin. Johnson admitted spending $1,200 in travel expenses during his 1954 campaign for Lt. Governor, but reported only $125 to the Secretary of State. Previously he had testified under oath that he had spent "no more and no less" than $125.

Trust Creditors Face Tangle

US Trust and Guaranty Co. depositors still may have a long, weary wait for their money.

At one time State Liquidator J. D. Wheeler said he hoped to be able to start making partial payments after July 1. With that in mind a Fort Worth woman now seeks court action to designate her a preferred creditor because she is a depositor.

Dist. Judge Charles O. Betts pointed out proper procedure is first to seek priority with the receiver. If he refuses, creditors may appeal through the courts. This takes months, sometimes years.

Short Snorts

Walter L. Bell has resigned as director of the State Board of Control effective Oct. 15. He has held the job since 1953. He has no immediate plans except to return to his Fort Worth home and rest.

The Rev. James Hamilton Clark, chaplain of the Texas House of Representatives for the past 10 years, has passed away. He had been a Methodist minister in various South and Central Texas towns and served seven terms as county judge in Johnson City before becoming House chaplain.

Texas Health Commissioner Henry Holle reported that "practically all" nursing and custodial care homes in Texas have been licensed and are meeting requirements of the licensing law which became effective June 1, 1953. Texas has 466 homes under state license.

Old Home, Revisited

Proper Range Use Pays Off Highly

COLLEGE STATION — "Proper use and stocking of range land has proven to be profitable from pounds of livestock produced as well as from conservation of soil and water to withstand drouths," says G. O. Hoffman, Extension Range Specialist, Texas A & M College.

In speaking of the practices, Hoffman referred to them as the tools of range management. Each individual should choose the range management tool that will best help him maintain a long lasting, profitable ranching business.

These range land practices are proper use and stocking, deferred and rotation grazing, brush control, reseeding, cross-fencing, salt and water distribution and walkways in marshlands.

Hoffman says the rancher should graze only the number of livestock that he has grass for, with stocking rates figured on using half and leaving half of the current year's growth.

Another good practice is deferred grazing. The deferred pastures can be mighty important as a feed reserve during winter. Or, by rotating livestock, one pasture can be deferred while grazing others, says Hoffman.

"By controlling brush, water ordinarily sapped from the ground by trees is left for grass. Brush control should always be followed by deferred grazing," Hoffman cautions.

Cross fencing should be planned where each area has the same grazing potential. This means that an acre of bottomland may graze as many livestock as 5 acres of upland.

"In marshlands," says Hoffman, "walkways similar to ranch roads, are an important range practice. They are built to get even grazing of the good marsh grasses."

When it is not profitable to fence, then proper salt and water distribution can give the rancher a chance to use grasses in the ungrazed corner. Livestock do not need water and salt together as once thought. Livestock will find salt when it is moved into ungrazed areas if they need it.

"Practice of these conservation methods will assure a more profitable business in the future," says Hoffman.

Entomologists Declare Fly War

COLLEGE STATION—As warm weather begins in earnest, an all-out effort should be made to control the population of house flies in dairy barns. Texas A & M entomologists have been conducting a series of experiments for the purpose of finding more effective controls of the flies.

Experimentation with various insecticides began in 1953, states Manning A. Price, assistant professor, department of entomology, Texas A & M College. Several different insecticides were used with different methods of application in determining most effective control.

Treated strings suspended from ceilings, syrup baits and residual sprays were all considered.

Results indicated residual sprays to be most satisfactory, while diazinon, malathion and chlorthion were the most effective materials used. To determine the most effective of these insecticides and most satisfactory concentration, experiments were conducted near College Station in 1955.

Results were based on average number of days protection given by each application at various concentrations of each insecticide.

The insecticides were used as wettable powders and emulsions at various concentrations, says Price.

Malathion emulsifiable concentrate diluted to two and one-half and five per cent gave protection for 47 and 87 days, respectively.

As an emulsifiable concentrate diluted to one-half of one and one per cent diazinon gave 74 and 48 days protection, respectively.

Diazinon was used at one per cent concentration only in barns where sanitation was extremely poor and where there were numerous nearby fly breeding areas.

Chlorthion emulsifiable concentrate at one-half of one per cent averaged 20 days protection.

The considerable variation in number of days of control in individual barns resulted from differences in extent of sanitation and presence of adjacent areas for suitable fly breeding, Price states.

In barns of poor sanitation, adjacent to suitable fly breeding areas, effectiveness of the control was understandably lower than in barns of good sanitary conditions.

Cleanliness of dairy barns, good sanitation practices in fly breeding areas, and effective control measures will greatly decrease this year's fly population.

Wesley Bible Class Honored

Members of the Wesley Bible Class were honored guests at a tea given by the Joyce Hill Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at 9:30 Tuesday, June 5, in the new parlor of the First Methodist Church. Other guests included the members of the Naomi Hare Circle and the new pastor's wife, Mrs. Doyle Ragle.

Mrs. Glen Gardner greeted each guest and pinned a pink ribbon on each as a symbol of their years of service in the church. Mrs. Noah Arnpriester gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Clyde McElroy, outgoing circle chairman, gave the welcome. Mrs. L. J. Witkowski, incoming circle chairman, asked questions about famous women of the Bible and introduced Mrs. Art Roberts, who told the story of Esther, the woman whose beauty saved a nation.

Mrs. Gardner introduced the following guests to the group: Mrs. Hattie Brasuel, Mrs. E. C. Penick, Mrs. J. L. Moore, Mrs. John Wiseman, Mrs. Mittie Workman, Miss M. Moss Richardson, Mrs. Lillie Foster, Mrs. R. M. Barton and Mrs. C. L. Neelley. These women have been serving in the Methodist Church an aggregate of 400 years here and elsewhere.

The serving table, which had been arranged by Mrs. K. E. Hines, was covered with a lace cloth over pink, and centered with a bouquet of pink carnations, the WSCS flower. The centerpiece was a gift of Mrs. D. A. Nicholas. Mrs. Ragle presided at the punch bowl.

Defense Secretary Wilson has disclosed that production of the B-52 intercontinental bomber was being raised from its present six a month to 20.

Double-Ring, Candlelight Service Read in Chapel Saturday Evening

Nuptial vows were solemnized Saturday evening at the Joseph A. Hill Chapel for Carrie Belle Ruggles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ruggles, and Charles Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Morris. The Rev. Strauss Atkinson read the double-ring service.

The candlelight service was performed before an altar draped in white satin with a garland of plumosis fern and white daisies. Vases of white gladiola and baskets of white gladiola were also used.

Organist, Mrs. Dick Dawdy, played the traditional wedding marches and "Always" as the prelude. She accompanied Mrs. H. R. Fulton Jr. who sang "Through the Years" preceding the ceremony and "Bless This House" at the conclusion. "Clair de Lune was played during the exchanging of vows.

Scotty Downing and Mike Bellah lighted the candles, and Gail Ann Downing carried the rings on a satin pillow.

The bride's attendant was her sister, Tillie Ruggles, who wore a ballerina length dress of orchid taffeta and net and carried a colonial bouquet of orchid carnations. Best man was Billy Joe McBroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she wore a ballerina length dress of white lace over satin and carried a prayer book topped with white baby calla lilies. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a small headpiece of white flowers. The bride chose a single strand of pearls and matching earrings for her jewelry.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was honored with a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Prichard, 1104 4th Ave.

The couple will be at home in Fort Collins, Colo., where the bridegroom is employed with a building contractor. Both are graduates of Canyon High School.

Fashion writers in New York City were recently treated to showing of a dress with high neckline in back and widely plunging front neckline. Turns out that the model had the garment on backward. How could they tell? That's the way most of the gals' formal costumes appear to us.

Pity all the parents of Communist persuasion throughout the world who named their offspring "Stalin." In the light of recent disillusioning statements from the present Kremlin regime, they'll have to change the kids' names to "Mud."

"Service Was Never Better"

Some time ago, we mailed out post cards to all our customers in Canyon. If you'll remember, we asked you in the post card what you didn't like about your telephone service.

Maybe some of you were surprised that we would ask a question like that. But we meant it. We weren't asking for compliments. We did it to find out what you really thought about telephone service here.

(When the cards came back with your answers, we were happy to see that most of you said, "Service is very good, well satisfied with it." And it was good hearing it from you, because we're all admit that nobody knows more about your service than you do.

We also got a few complaints — thanks for telling us about them — and we tried to clear those up in a hurry so that everyone in Canyon would be satisfied with their telephone service.

Meanwhile, don't hesitate if something's bothering you right now about your telephone company's service. Just call the telephone company. We would like to know about it, and we will try to do something about it, too.

Stop Those Hurried Dashes

Ever notice how you run for a ringing telephone because you're often in another part of the house? Then, when you get there, you're probably a little out of breath as you answer.

The best way I know of to stop those dashes through the house is a handy extension telephone. Our records show that the most popular spots for an extension with most people are the bedroom and kitchen. But don't forget the living room or the workshop — or anywhere, really, that's most convenient for you and your family.

To order an extension, just call the telephone company. The cost of an extension in your home is only $.75 a month, plus a one-time installation charge of $1.75.

Long Distance Visit

I was thinking just the other day that you can't drive a car from Canyon to Fort Worth for $.90. Yet, you can visit there - by Long Distance - for just $.90.

That's the cost of a three-minute station-to-station call, after 6 p. m. and all day Sunday. Long Distance rates to anywhere are much less than you might think. So plan to visit regularly by Long Distance. And when you call, remember to call by number - it's twice as fast.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

See the Seesee Bird? They're New Here

AUSTIN—Another new game bird, described as "a hair smaller than bobwhite quail," is being introduced into Texas in an effort to bulwark native upland game species.

It is the seesee partridge which originated in Pakistan, according to W. S. Jennings, assistant director of Wildlife Restoration of the Game and Fish Commission. The first air shipment of 67 seesees is being held in pens in the Palo Duro Canyon area, east of Canyon, where the fleet birds will be released after they have recovered from the exhausting flight.

The new species are found in the dryer parts of West Pakistan and are accustomed to rugged barren areas.

Meanwhile, Wildlife Biologist A. S. Jackson of Canadian, who supervised receipt of the seesees, reported progress on a previously introduced exotic wild game bird. A Cottle county rancher said he saw a female red-legged partridge and young. This is the first brood reported of this larger game bird which was obtained from Spain.

The original shipment of the red legs was received in West Texas last year. A second consignment recently was released in that area. Both red legs and seesees were obtained by the commission through the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Restoration authorities constantly strive to adapt new species to various areas and point to the incredible success with Chinese ring-necked pheasants as justifying the effort.

The Palo Duro Canyon country which will receive the first seesee shipment also is scheduled to get seed stock of wild Aoudad Sheep which are on order at this time.

Americans Being Returned to Family Living

BY EDNA MILES

THE advent of the car took the family out of the home. Television, some researchers seem to think, has brought it back into the home.

There still is a need, however, for things the family can do together in addition to watching a form of entertainment. The Victorian parlor readings, family teas and songfests were equaled, in this country, by picnics, marshmallow roasts and singing on the front porch to the strains of a ukelele. But that was years ago.

One firm feels that it may have a contribution to the trend in a new, small, apartment - sized chord organ To make the learning process easy and painless, there's simple "picture music" that makes it possible for any member of the family to play a tune with as little as half an hour's practice

In playing, one finger of the right hand plays the melody while one finger of the left presses buttons to add full, rich chords. Further, there is now "touch-response" percussion for effects resembling marimba, xylophone, guitar, banjo and orchestra bells

Harmony in the home is no longer a thing of the past. Once more in tune with family living, Americans are rediscovering the pleasure of group activity. Easy-to-play, chorded organ carries the tune for revival of family singing.

Refugees

Some questions are answered. Assurances for refugees must be in the hands of the United States consular authorities abroad not later than July or August 1956 to enable them to complete the necessary processing by Dec. 31, 1956.

It is now certain that many thousands of visas will go unused in the Netherlands because of too few citizen sponsorships.

The eligibility of visa applicants from a health standpoint is determined by the public health service. Fifteen overseas medical examination centers are staffed with full time personnel to administer chest X-ray, serology, and whatever diagnostic procedures are indicated. These examinations form the basis for medical notifications to visa officials.

No reports indicate any adverse impacts on the domestic labor market by the coming of aliens. Nearly 1,000 refugee tailors have been sponsored by clothing manufacturers and contractors in the New York area with full support of organized labor. The steady decline of workers in this field has been a major threat to the continuation of the garment industry. Refugee tailors from abroad, principally war and flood victims in Italy, were found and assurances filled on their behalf by U. S. citizens. Similar priority projects are underway for skilled shoemakers and restaurant cooks and chefs.

'Whiteheaded Boy' Starts Summer Branding Iron Theatre Playbill

An Irish domestic comedy, "The Whiteheaded Boy," will open the eighth season of Summer Theatre June 27 at West Texas State College's Branding Iron Theatre.

The Palo Duro Players' production, which will play three nights, is the first of two to be produced this summer by Dr. M. Blair Hart, chairman of the speech and dramatic art department at the University of Arkansas.

Equivalent to the American expression, "fair-haired boy," the Lennox Robinson play was begun as a political satire and ended strictly a comedy. Robinson belonged to the school of Irish playwrights at the turn of the century which included the more famous John M. Synge.

Dr. Hart has not yet completed casting, but he has nearly 40 summer students in two theatre classes to draw upon for talent. He and his crews in stage craft already are preparing sets for the opening show.

The Arkansas director brings years of experience to the WT Summer Theatre. He first joined the Arkansas staff in 1936, working in speech and drama until 1940, returning to the Fayetteville campus after the war in 1946. He became chairman of the university department three years ago.

One of the first colleges in the nation to boast a fine arts center, housing music, art, architecture and speech, the University of Arkansas produces six major plays during the winter and three in the summer. Another six plays from original scripts are given during the year by the Arkansas chapter of National Collegiate Players.

"Our drama program at Arkansas is directed from an educational standpoint," Dr. Hart said. "We try to plan our shows in terms of four years, presenting plays representative of all types of drama. This cycle permits our students to become familiar with the stage from the classical to the contemporary."

Dr. Hart plans to focus on plays emphasizing character studies this summer, rather than the very elaborate and spectacular productions. His groups will work with stagecraft during the afternoons and will rehearse at night.

The director will be assisted by his wife, who continued her theatre activities after their marriage.

Dr. Hart personally prefers the romantic, spectacular play, but he likes them all and has "as much fun directing the original one-act as Shakespeare." He has twice directed the master playwright's "Winter's Tale," and such other great works as "Francesca and Paola" and "If I Were King."

He has experimented with all types of media within the dramatics field and generally prefers a staged play to theatre-in-the-round.

Second play of the season will be presented the first week of the second summer term at WT, which opens July 17. Advance reservations for both productions may be made through the WT speech department.

Al Sternenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sternenberg, accompanied the Roscoe Davis family to Indianapolis, Ind. Al is attending the reading clinic at the University of Indiana for six weeks. The Davis family, who attended the graduation of Roscoe's sister, Mrs. Paul Jackson, will return in two weeks.

Mrs. T. W. Collins visited last week with her son, Joe B. Collins and his family in Vernon.

Jane Jennings visited relatives and friends in Tulia last week.

of the traffic. "I don't know of a state school that has such an inadequate entrance to it," Lott said.

Foster told the county commission that the city would probably be able to take care of right of way for widening the avenue if the county could purchase that needed in the first block.

County Commissioner Glenn Dowlen asked the delegation if they knew how much the first block of right of way would cost, and Bayne estimated that it might cost $15,000 to $18,000, although he said he had no firm commitments at those figures.

The county commission took the matter under advisement, and took no further action at Monday's meeting.

In other business, the commission accepted a bid of $28,876 from Cooper and Woodruff of Amarillo for paving 4½ miles of farm-to-market road leading south from 8th Street in Canyon to the FM road south of town.

They also approved moving and rebuilding the fence on the West Texas State College farm north of Canyon. The fence is presently on right of way donated by the college for building the expressway. The fence moving will cost an estimated $500.

Publications Deal With Plains Water

COLLEGE STATION—Two recently released Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publications deal with research studies on subjects vital to farmers and ranchmen on the High and Rolling Plains of Texas.

Bulletin 828, titled, "Changes in Investment and Irrigation Water Costs, Texas High Plains, 1950-54," contains a wealth of information on what is happening in this great agricultural producing area. The authors, W. F. Hughes, Agricultural Research Service USDA, and A. C. Magee, Department of Agriculture Economics and Sociology, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, say expanded development and water use has caused a decline in regional water levels, caused pumps to be lowered and well performance to drop and thus overall materially increasing the investment and cost of irrigation water. Information on how these and other problems are being met are discussed.

The second publication is MP-154, "Farming and Ranching Risk as Influenced by Rainfall." The authors, R. J. Hildreth and Gerald W. Thomas, are members of the staffs of the Departments of Agricultural Economics and Sociology and Range and Forestry of the Texas A & M College System.

They have made a detailed study of weather records from 31 locations scattered over the High and Rolling Plains. Some of the records go back for 89 years while others are for much shorter periods. The authors believe that farmers and ranchmen can take several steps which will aid in meeting weather risks.

By studying the occurrence and range of past weather variations, they can predict better the probability of future drouths and their severity, as well as the possibility of good years, and can adjust some farm and ranch operations to fit these constantly changing conditions, say the authors.

Both publications are available from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Atkinson National FHA Delegate

Mayla Atkinson, 15, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Strauss Atkinson, 1719 Third Avenue, will be a delegate to the 1956 national convention of Future Homemakers of America July 2-6 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

A sophomore at Canyon High School, Mayla has been an FHA member since 1955 and has served as Area I public relations officer. She will be one of around 2,000 FHA members chosen to attend the national meeting.

The convention sessions will be planned to help FHA'ers recognize opportunities and accept responsibilities related to improving home, school and community life. National officers for 1956-57 will be elected and national projects voted on.

FHA is the national organization of pupils studying homemaking in junior and senior high schools in the U. S. and its territories. Any student who has taken or is taking homemaking may belong. Membership totals nearly 500,000. Adviser for the local chapter is Clara B. Long.

Mayla is treasurer of the band, member of the band council and a girl's sextet. She has received the English award, her junior FHA degree and attended Area I and state FHA meetings.

Around the Town . .

By DOVIE CHERRY

Howdy! This is old hopalong hopping around the town this week.

No, I don't have any horse, I just hopalong. It's all very simple. It seems there's a first time for everything, and I've just had my first big shot of penicillin—in the hip.

I see why the doctors don't warn the patient about how it is going to affect him, because any person in his right mind and with feelings, if he had a choice, wouldn't let the doctor puncture him in the hip.

Why? Because you can't sit, or if you do, you do it with a horrible grimace and then need a wrecker to get you up. You can't lie down, you can't walk and if you try standing you do it on one foot. What's more people stare and friends and husbands in particular grin and say, "hello, hopalong," or "howdy, crip."

Like one friend said, "It didn't sit right well with me." I agree with Mrs. Clyde Warwick who said, after her first big penicillin shot in the hip, "The next one is going to be in the arm. I can do without my arms fairly well, but I can't do without my sitting down place."

☆ ☆ ☆

Speaking of penicillin shots reminds me of hospitals which reminds me of patients which remind me of visitors which, believe it or not, brings me around to the subject. I wonder if we have ever considered what type of hospital visitor we are. Whether we are the quiet pleasant type of hospital visitor or the noisy, ball-of-fire type. You know, the type that when nurses see coming, they whisper, "To your arms, gals, it's here again."

In the hall of Neblett Hospital, there is a sign of standards for judging visiting behavior titled "The Perfect Hospital Visitor." It says:

The Perfect Visitor trampeth not on hard heels; neither does he shout. He walketh softly and speaketh quietly for ill people are easily disturbed.

The Perfect Visitor goes home soon. He (or is it more often she?) might like to chat all afternoon, but is considerate of the weary patient—particularly in hot weather.

The Perfect Visitor talketh of the pleasant things in life; he smileth often and his demeanor is cheerful. Though at heart he may be a pessimist, he knows that the patient has his own more imminent troubles.

The Perfect Visitor knoweth what a chair is for—he sits on it. He perches not upon the bed, jouncing the aching head or obstructing the restless foot.

The Perfect Visitor beareth with him no cold in the head. Though he may consider a sneeze or a cough as nothing he inflicts not his germs upon the helpless patient.

The Perfect Visitor thinketh about gifts. If he bringeth flowers he selects those of delicate fragrance—or a plant, which lasts longer. He considers carefully the appropriateness of fruit or candy for those with troubled stomachs.

The Perfect Visitor is always welcome for he observeth the visiting hours. Patients and nurses smile upon him, for he is as a precious jewel—above price.

☆ ☆ ☆

Also in Neblett Hospital, at the bill paying place, there is a clipping pasted on the wall. The clipping which is one of Cedric Adams' columns, In This Corner, is an article on hospital bills which Adams had read.

Mr. Adams thought it interesting and so do I. The article begins with a statement from a man who had come to that dread time of paying the hospital bill for his wife's appendectomy. "This bill is terrible, I'm not going to pay it," said the man at the desk. "How can you expect a working man like me to pay $128 for three days of care? What we need are hospitals that are run by the government."

The bill when broken up was $52.50 for room, $60 for surgery, $10.50 for laboratory cost, $5 for drugs and miscellaneous. When the hospital attendants asked the man, who was a plumber, if the service had been satisfactory, he answered that it had.

The attendants then asked him what would three days of plumber's service cost. The plumber figured that it would be $330—$110 for each 24 hours constant service.

The attendants explained that it took 400 full time employes to run a good sized hospital. That meant 2½ employes per patient or five-sixths of one person's efforts around the clock. In addition, the hospital supplied food, linen, medication, surgical equipment, laboratory services, dressings and techniques and skills. And then, the attendants pointed out, the hospital was responsible for his wife's safety.

This article said all hospital services cost an average of $1.11 an hour which can be compared with the average pay of a wage earner.

I had never looked at it quite like this before, and neither had the plumber because he paid his bill with much more good will.

True, hospital rates vary, and these figures might not always apply. What hurts the average person is not having insurance or enough extra cash to pay for the bill no matter what size it is. But when you think about it, it's all a lot cheaper than a burial bill.

Had an opportunity to eat some of Mrs. W. A. Warren's freezer strawberry ice cream the other day. Wonderful! She says the secret is to use only fresh country cream.

I also enjoyed seeing the trumpet vines which are in full bloom in the Warren's backyard.

☆ ☆ ☆

It's rather surprising to discover how old children think their parents are. Mrs. Bernard Warren says her youngsters sometime come up with the question, "Mommy, are you anywhere near 100 years old?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Don't forget, June 17 is Father's Day. I believe it was Mark Twain that said, "When I was a boy of 14, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years."

WORST SUSPICIONS CONFIRMED—Harried citizens convinced of the omnipotence of the tax collector will be horrified to know that the girl peering from the mail collection rack, above, is an Internal Revenue Service employe. Margie Spencer, who works for the Internal Revenue department in Indianapolis, Ind., is appearing in a strictly unofficial capacity. She's posing to emphasize attractiveness of Uncle Sam's new mail collection racks and is not scrounging the mails for late tax returns. Citizens perform first steps in mail sorting operations by depositing air and special delivery matter at left; out-of-town first-class mail goes at right and local letters drop on top of Margie's head.

Gayler Graduates From Patrol School

Dan Gayler, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Happy McAtee, graduated June 8 from the Highway Patrol School in Austin.

Dan will be on duty with the Highway Patrol at Dalhart. He and his wife plan to move this week.

Mr. and Mrs. McAtee and boys and Mrs. Gayler attended the exercises. Mr. and Mrs. McAtee and family also visited Mrs. McAtee's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brooks in Clifton, Texas. Another brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brooks of Salem, Ore., met the McAtees at their brother's, the Ed Brooks.

Vows Are Solemnized Recently For Joan Payne-Guy Hamblen

In a Friday evening candlelight ceremony June 1, Joan Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Payne Sr. of Happy, became the bride of Guy Hamblen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hamblen of 300 12th St. The Rev. John Petry, director of the Baptist Student Union, officiated at the double-ring service.

Decorations of altar vases of white gladiola and baskets of white gladiola and mums were used. Large white mums with blue and white ribbons marked the pews. Organist, Diane Prichard, played the prelude and traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. H. G. Sprawls, aunt of the bride from Denver City, who sang "I Love You Truly," and Richmond Payne, brother of the bride, who sang "Because."

Two cousins of the bride, Karon Gayle Sprawls from Tulia and Ida Gwynn Braly of Odessa, lighted the candles. Both wore light blue taffeta floor length dresses and wristlets of blue carnations.

Attending her sister as matron of honor, Joyce Barrett from Roswell, N. M., wore a light blue taffeta dress of floor length. The dress was styled with a sleeveless fitted bodice featuring soft pleats which terminated in a point above a full skirt. A southern bustle effect was featured in the back of the skirt. She carried a nosegay of light blue majestic daisies.

Bridesmaids, Virginia Leake, Nancy Root and Barbara Bacon, were all attired in dresses and carried bouquets identical to that of the matron of honor.

William H. Hamblen, brother of the bridegroom from Britt, Iowa, was best man. Ushers were Doyle Bourn and Dick Dawdy.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel train gown of white taffeta under lace and net. The fitted bodice of net over taffeta had a sweetheart neckline and extended to a full skirt of net over taffeta with soft section pleats of lace. Her fingertip illusion veil was attached to a pillbox hat featuring seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of cascade arrangement of stephanotis centered with blue gardenias.

At the reception in the bride's home, Shirley Payne, sister-in-law of the bride, and Carol Schrib, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the cake and punch service. A large three tiered cake was used as a centerpiece, and the bride's colors of blue and white were used for decorations at the table and throughout the house.

The couple is now at home in Canyon following a trip to Carlsbad, N. M. For the trip, the bride wore a blue cotton dress featuring white eyelet embroidery and a duster of blue nylon. A corsage of blue gardenias taken from the bridal bouquet and white accessories completed the costume.

Both are graduates of Canyon High School and he has attended West Texas State College. Mr. Hamblen is employed by the Pioneer Gas Company.

Mowing Important For Good Pasture

COLLEGE STATION—Mowing is an important practice in the management of cultivated pastures. Mowing weeds, sprouts, bushes, briars and vines helps eliminate them and makes conditions more favorable for grass. Also, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, mowing cultivated pasture grasses tends to keep them in a growing condition and more palatable and nutritious.

Trew suggests that mowing be started when the worst weeds begin to bloom. They are weakest and are damaged most by mowing when blooming. All weeds should be mowed before they can produce seed, and some such as eastern bitterweed, a pest in Bermudagrass pastures, often makes enough regrowth to mature seed after even two mowings.

Make the first mowing for bitterweed high but lower each succeeding clipping to prevent seed production on the mowed stubble. Fall blooming weeds like yankee or rosinweed may need a summer mowing and another when fall blooming starts.

Any heavy duty power take-off mower when properly equipped can be used for mowing brush or sprouts up to an inch in diameter.

The vegetation to be moved will determine the type of clips, guards and sickle to use for best results.

Rotary or shredder type mowers can be operated at faster speeds than cutter bar mowers but can not be used if hay or silage is to be made from the clippings.

Trew says that some stockmen have said they lost grazing by mowing last summer, because they mowed the pastures too short and continued mowing after moisture supplies were too low to permit the grass to make regrowth.

Weed control with chemicals is being used more and more. It is often a cheaper method. Most annual broad-leaved weeds can be controlled with a half to three-quarters of a pound an acre of 2, 4,-D or M.C.P. applied in water as a broadcast spray.

But chemical control also has disadvantages. Even at the low rates chemicals may damage or kill pasture legumes such as white, hop, persion, crimson and red clover, lespedeza, black medic and alfalfa.

WARREN'S

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

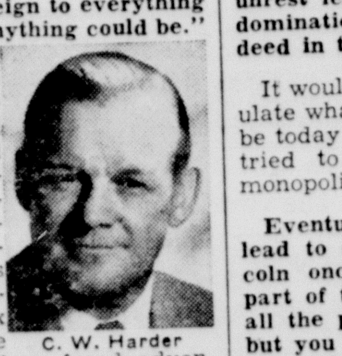
By C. WILSON HARDER

There are some around Washington when asked "What do you think of American foreign policy" reply with cynicism.

* * *

The reply: "No question about American foreign policy being foreign—as foreign to everything American as anything could be."

* * *



C. W. Harder

Deplorable part of entire situation is that money needed for development and expansion of independent American business is being siphoned off via tax route to engage in all types of confused adventures, many appearing to be nothing more than attempt to pull British chestnuts out of fire.

* * *

For out of billions being poured out in foreign aid, some is being given Isreal, some to Arab nations. Some is also given Pakistan and some to India. And it is quite interesting that communist as well as non communist nations share in this never ending flow of bounty.

* * *

Thus in two different areas of disagreements, State Dept. is taking stand with both sides due to situations stemming back to past British diplomacy, or perhaps better known as machinations.

* * *

In Middle East, England is in trouble with oil supply with which she has long attempted to create world monopoly. Whether or not this is with the connivance of several U. S. firms is now being investigated.

* * *

For years British also exercised monopoly in natural rubber and tin in her Malayan colonies. American development of synthetics and colonial drive for independence is upsetting this apple cart.

* * *

British West Africa supplies major share of world's cocoa, Ceylon leads in tea, and Pakistan in jute. But in those areas, unrest leads away from British domination. The Empire is indeed in trouble.

* * *

It would be interesting to speculate what British position would be today if she had not doggedly tried to dominate world with monopolies and cartels.

* * *

Eventually, monopoly tactics lead to disaster. Abraham Lincoln once said, "You can fool part of the people all the time, all the people part of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time."

* * *

However, based on record of past 24 years, it could probably be said you can fool U. S. State Dept. all the time.

* * *

For much of the foreign give aways fall into a pattern seemingly designed to help British monopoly whenever and wherever it gets into trouble.

* * *

And as is by now well konwn, there is a move in Washington to remove from British monopoly anxiety from year to year over how much they can tap Uncle Sam for.

* * *

The plan is to set up a giveaway program that would be saddled on U. S. taxpayers for a long period of years.

* * *

And thus is presented a most ironical spectacle of all time.

* * *

Independent American business is handicapped in order to make it possible to bulwark, at least temporarily, the British system of cartel business. What Patrick Henry would have to say about this situation if he were around today.

There'll Be No 'Beef' Over These Budget-Wise Beef Dishes

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

GROUND BEEF can be used in so many good-tasting and economical ways. The U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts that the supply of beef will continue heavy and with prices low. And here, homemakers, are two new recipes using ground beef.

We think you'll enjoy the pickle supper loaf, a tempting combination of sweet pickle relish and ground beef that has a country-kitchen aroma and flavor. So does the pickle meat ball casserole, which makes good use of two plentiful meats—ground beef and pork.

Pickle Supper Loaf (Makes 4 servings)

One pound ground chuck, ¼ cup sweet pickle relish, ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs, ⅔ cup milk, 1 egg, beaten; ¼ cup chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, freshly ground pepper, 3 slices bacon.

Mix ground beef, pickle relish, bread crumbs, milk, egg, onion, salt and pepper until evenly combined. Shape into loaf on rack in shallow baking pan. Top with slices of bacon.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 minutes, or until done.

Pickle Meat Ball Casserole (Makes 4-6 servings)

One pound ground beef chuck, ½ pound ground pork sausage, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper, 4 slices bacon, ½ cup chili sauce, ¼ cup sweet pickle relish, ¼ cup water, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 medium-size onions, sliced; one 1-pound can baked beans.

Combine beef, sausage, salt and pepper; mix well. Shape meat mixture into 1½-inch balls.

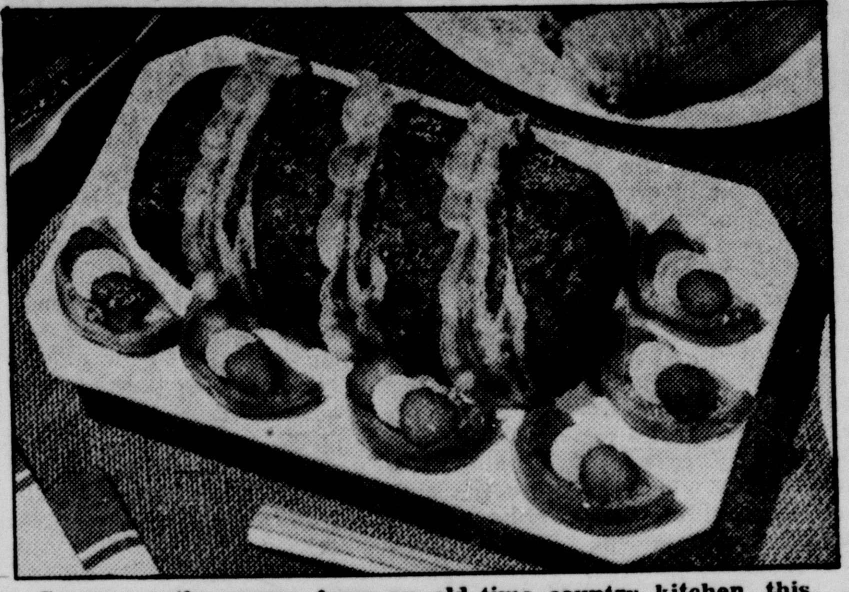
Fry bacon over medium heat until crisp. Remove bacon and drain on absorbent paper; crumble bacon. Brown meat balls in bacon drippings. Drain off all but 2 tablespoons drippings.

Combine chili sauce, pickle relish, water and brown sugar; mix well. Pour over meat balls and add onion slices.

Cook over low heat 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Combine baked beans and bacon in greased, 1½-quart casserole. Arrange meat balls and sauce over bean mixture.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 minutes.



Savory as the aroma from an old-time country kitchen, this pickle supper loaf of market-plentiful beef is a real taste treat.

WHAT ABOUT J. EVETTS HALEY FOR GOVERNOR?

THE DALLAS NEWS SAYS:

Nothing like this man Evetts Haley has hit Texas politics since Jim Hogg strode up on the platform, picked up a crockeryware pitcher of water, drank it dry, wiped his whiskers with the back of his hand and started out, "I-gatlins," to lay it on the line.

Haley was in town Wednesday night and gave something like 300 people every chance in the world to cross him off their list—and they whooped and clapped and ate just about every word he said.

He performed up here just about like he did down at Houston. After he got done with a speech down there, two gentlemen came up and said:

"We are from CIO. May we ask a question or two?"

"Certainly, gentlemen," said Haley, "and I'll be glad to answer."

"What is your attitude toward labor?"

"I believe that you have the same right to organize that anybody else has, big business or little. I believe you have a right to quit work whenever you want to. But, if after you do quit you think you have the right to keep somebody else off that job, let me tell you this:

"If on my ranch a bunch of my hands quit and you fellows come up there trying to interfere with the people I then hire to flank a bunch of yearlings on my land, I'll meet you at the fence with a .32, and, if necessary, I'll draw a bead on you and rim a shell and leave you lying on the fence line. And if that isn't plain enough, I'll make it plainer."

★

Gulp

Now, Evetts Haley is no goon, fink or scab. He is no gunman or bucket-of-blood character out of a pulp magazine. But, as he told about that interview the other night, the Columntator gulped and said to himself, "By gravy, that's just what Evetts would actually do."

And that is substantially the way he aims to run the Governor's office, if the people name him. He is telling people precisely what he plans and plans to do precisely what he tells them. If they don't like it, he is telling them to vote for somebody else.

Take integration. He gets down to this:

A school board in Texas refuses to integrate. NAACP files a suit in a Federal District Court. The man on the bench commands the board to integrate. The board stands pat and the judge sends a marshal to arrest the board.

"The minute that comes up," says Haley, "I will expect the sheriff of that county to arrest the marshal. And, of course, as Governor of Texas, should I be fortunate enough to be elected, I will expect to back up that sheriff. I will send a Texas Ranger to meet that marshal and arrest him and throw him in the hoosegow. That, my friends, is interposition. I expect to interpose."

★

Understandable

The Columntator isn't so sure about throwing U. S. marshals in jail. But this man Haley just bowls you over by saying exactly what he thinks, campaign or no campaign, vote or no vote. And the net impression you get is that the man means literally what he says. We just don't have people like that in the big middle of Texas politics. And if Evetts Haley could by some miracle get himself squarely before every voter in this state there is just no telling what might happen.

But one thing is pretty clear, if the miracle should happen and the people of Texas should choose this 125-pound Andy Jackson of a cowman as Governor in charge of interposition, the Supreme Court of the United States would read the election returns.

The column can't go all the way with Evetts Haley. But when it comes to breaking big words up into small ones that a wayfarer can understand, he has the emphasis of a mule skinner, the clarity of lightning and the frankness of a child.

No matter how this campaign turns out, this is not the end of Evetts Haley. The man means what he says.

CREEP-FED CALVES MAKE POUND OF GAIN on only 4 POUNDS OF PURINA

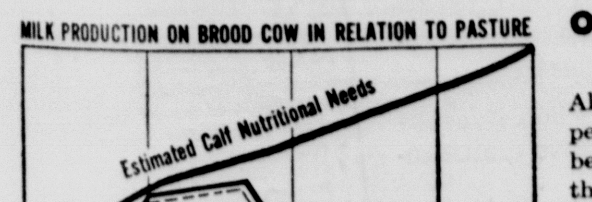
Creep feeding offsets drop in milk production on summer-poor pastures



Calves get early nutrition requirements from the brood cow. Note the sharp decline in milk flow when grass turns brown in summer while calves nutritional needs increase. For steady gains start creep feeding early.

All of us are looking for ways to make extra gains per pound of feed and to cut costs per pound of beef produced. What could be more conclusive than these figures? Purina's tested and proved creep rations are built to do both jobs.

Start feeding a Purina Creep Ration early this year to get your calves used to eating before pastures turn brown. When milk flow drops, your calves should continue gaining at low cost. Creep feeding helps you get superior calves, higher market prices plus efficient daily gains. See us for simple plans on how to build an inexpensive creep feeder.

Let us help you put Purina's 30 years of "Know-How" and ours to work for you. We'll help you MAKE FEED DOLLARS COUNT! Stop in NOW!

If you have grain, we have a PURINA SUPPLEMENT to help you get the most from it. See us about it.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Restful Holiday?

Memorial Day was observed throughout the Washington area. Holidays are usually excellent days for a member of Congress to catch up on loose ends in the office. However, I decided that I would spend the entire day with the family.

In order to plant myself firmly in their good graces, I went to the kitchen at 7 o'clock to cook breakfast for them. Here I had my first hurdle of the day.

I discovered that we had bacon and eggs, but no bread for toast. So, I quickly changed the menu to hot cakes.

This settled the problem until I discovered that there was no syrup. I then found out that there is no way to concoct breakfast out of eggs, bacon and pancake flour, no matter what order you place them in.

Not to be outdone I got into the car and went to find some small, enterprising merchant who was open on the holiday. I found one located on a main street lined with parking meters.

Assuming that parking meters did not apply on holidays, I went into the store and made my purchases. Just as I was settling with the cashier, I noticed two officers, who were obviously not observing Memorial Day, passing out parking tickets and headed in the direction of my car.

I grabbed the groceries and made a dash for the parking meter in order to avoid being a law violator on a national holiday. I made it, but only to find out that my change consisted of everything but nickels.

The officers had gotten into a squabble with one fellow who decided to stand up for his rights, and while this argument was going on, I got the car started and pulled away from the curb just in the nick of time.

These operations consumed about two and one-half hours, so by the time we finished breakfast, it was about 10:30. I checked with the office and found that no emergencies had arisen there, so decided to do a few chores that Mrs. Rogers has been calling to my attention for the past several months.

One of these was to paint a kitchen screen. I prepared for this project several weeks ago by purchasing a spray can of paint.

It is very simple. All you do is shake the can, press the lever on top and your paint worries are over (or so I thought). The lever didn't seem to be working right. I was examining it very closely trying to make an adjustment when the paint started spraying in every direction except on the screen.

I got it all over my face and shirt before I could get the infernal contraption shut off. I sent one of the boys after the turpentine that I had previously purchased for this operation.

He advised me that one of the other boys had dropped the bottle several days ago and there was no turpentine. This, of course, left me a difficult job in removing the paint from me.

While engaged in this endeavor, our 10 year old came into the house screaming with blood all over his leg. He had fallen on his bicycle and ripped a two-inch gash in his right shin.

We called our doctor friend, threw the child into the car and made a beeline for the doctor's house where five stitches were required to close the wound. The doctor assured us that it was not serious and that the boy would soon be up and about.

He told me that he had to make a trip out into the country to see a very sick patient. Being thankful for finding him at home, I offered to drive him as I thought the outing might be restful. He agreed and we started out, only to run out of gas before we got out of town.

The trip was otherwise uneventful. But, just as we reached the doctor's home, the heavens opened up and all of the water available seemed to come down at once. I called home to see if everything was all right and was advised that water was pouring through the basement door.

I jumped into the car and drove through the pouring rain to see what could be done with the basement. When I arrived I was told not to go into the basement, because one of the neighbor children had received a shock while trying to help stop the water.

Actually, it wasn't too bad. An outside drain had become stopped up. I unstopped this and got the water all taken care of, and the small portion of the basement that had been affected dried out.

There wasn't much left of the holiday for resting purposes, so we all went to bed.

I have now decided that in the future it will be necessary for me to catch up on the loose ends at the office on all holidays. This reminds me that last December I asked Mrs. Rogers what she wanted for Christmas. She replied, "An office."

Whiskey on Airplanes

The Transportation Subcommittee of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which I am a member, recently favorably reported a bill to prohibit the serving of alcoholic beverages on commercial airplanes in the United States. This was a rather controversial measure, but was eloquently supported by the hostesses and stewards, as well as the Airline Pilots Association.

We heard some rather frightening stories as to past experiences of some of the witnesses with both men and women who had become intoxicated while in flight. I know many people in the District will be glad to know that this bill has been reported favorably. I have received quite a bit of mail on the subject.

LIPSTICK LOGIC

BY LOUISE ALLEN

What do ladies talk about when they meet at a luncheon or tea?

After you've been on a desert island of work for several months, then get back into a party atmosphere, the things that interest women seem as varied as window shopping.

Making a rose garden . . . the grandchildren . . . prowlers . . . the place the honor guest is moving to . . . the commencement speaker . . . the new preacher . . . a trip to New York . . . shows on Broadway . . . movies . . . getting a suntan . . . the tuberculosis checkup in the schools . . . television programs . . . the son's career . . . a new baby . . . clothes . . . a novel . . . the weather . . . Alaska . . . diet . . . politics . . . summer vacations . . . what ever happened to the Smiths . . . a new home . . . air conditioning . . . atomic cooking.

If we took an encyclopedia and started through it from A to Z, we probably wouldn't find any more variety than ladies who let themselves go to be entertaining can think up during the course of a luncheon or tea.

Conversation, once the stock-in-trade of every social gathering, has been pretty much supplemented by games, business talks, and watching t-v. But given a chance, women — or men — will assert their natural instincts for gathering and imparting news. And while really thoughtful discussion is pretty rare, for most of us, we do occasionally get a stimulating topic when one person is present who is looked to as an authority on his subject. Otherwise, it's likely to bog down in a lot of half-truths and argument without fact.

Who knows? If we didn't have so many conversation killers in our civilization these days, we might find talking could be good clean fun!

Find Deep Tillage, Pasture Burning No Help in Moisture Penetration

COLLEGE STATION—Moisture infiltration into the soil, an important factor in crop and pasture production in limited rainfall areas of the Great Plains, evidently is unaffected by deep tillage and adversely affected by burning over native grasses, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Jack Barton, extension soil and water conservation specialist, says the results of tests conducted in Kansas in 1952 disagree with a widely held theory that deep tillage with chisels and subsurface sweeps improves soil - moisture storage. Neither the amount of moisture infiltrated nor the yields of wheat produced was improved by deep tillage in these tests.

Soil types studied included a fine sandy loam with a distinct plow pan, a silty clay loam with a tight subsoil, a clay loam and a very fine sandy loam with a clay pan.

Barton says the research workers also found that when native bluestem pastures were burned over, the soil quickly lost its ability to absorb or take in large amounts of water.

Under conditions of simulated rain, unburned bluestem pastures absorbed water at a steady rate for nearly 80 minutes. Water absorption by burned-over soil dropped before the end of 20 minutes.

Very dry unburned pasture sod absorbed 4.6 inches of moisture in the first 10 minutes and 4.4 inches for each succeeding 10-minute period until after the end of 70 minutes.

Similar but burned-over sod absorbed 4.7 inches of moisture in the first 10 minutes, 3.4 inches the second 10 minutes and only 3 inches in the third 10 minute period.

While pasture burning is not a common practice in most sections of Texas, Barton points out that the Kansas tests should further strengthen the case against pasture burning and the need for protecting pastures against fires of all kinds.
